

Stephen's Art Project

Stephen sometimes finds it hard to express himself using speech, so we created a communication board to help him. The board has various pictures that Stephen points to. Stephen has used the board in the past to organise trips and choose activities, including this project.

This was an experiment for both Stephen and the staff. We adapted some brushes allowing him to reach the canvas easily.

He chose three colours to start with, all the equipment needed was placed around him, and with no more staff assistance, Stephen created this painting.
